Sensitivity to Aging

October 3, 2017

Comfort Inn
7525 US Route 23
Piketon, Ohio 45661
Sensitivity to Aging strives to make us aware of the special needs of the aging population, and the myths and stereotypes that are often associated with aging. Aging is a normal process and as we age, there are normal aging-related changes that develop from a psychosocial as well as physical perspective. It is the goal of Sensitivity to Aging to discuss these normal aging processes and how they affect the older adult. It is also the goal to make us aware of the impact of aging-related physical changes and how they affect the individual’s ability to meet their everyday needs so that we, as professionals, can develop an understanding and empathetic approach as we help our aging client population meet these needs.

Objectives

After the course, participants will be able to:

- Describe common attitudes and stereotypes about aging.
- Summarize demographics about the aging population.
- Describe social characteristics of older adults.
- Explain the impact of generational experiences on values and attitudes.
- Identify normal aging-related changes in older adults.
- Describe how aging-related sensory losses, decreased joint mobility, and decreased fatty tissues could affect an older person's feelings and functions.
- Discuss the impact of aging-related physical changes on the ability of older adults to do routine tasks.
